Guidelines for Applications to the Third-Year Undergraduate Program in 2025
(Selection Examination for the Twinning program of the School of International Studies, College of Human and Social Science, Kanazawa University)

(Note)

The applicant is responsible for confirming all the information (for his/her specific examination category) included in the Guidelines for Applicants.

Introduction

In accordance with the Twinning Program, the School of International Studies, College of Human and Social Science, Kanazawa University accepts students from our partner institution, Pukyong National University in South Korea.

The period of the Twinning Program is for four years. After education in English, Japanese and/or Liberal Arts at their home university for the first two years, students of the Twinning Program can meet the eligibility requirements for the examination that allows them to be admitted in the third year to Kanazawa University. The students who pass the examination mainly attend specialized core subjects related to international studies at Kanazawa University for two years. Those who complete the Twinning Program will be able to acquire the bachelor's degree of "Bachelor of International Studies" (Bachelor of Arts).

It might be helpful for participants to take courses taught in Japanese as well. That way they can set a smooth schedule up to graduation.

Within the School of International Studies, students learn about the global community and gain basic knowledge about international society and Japanese society, develop a broad understanding of international relations on the basis of the actual situations in each of the specified regions, and receive professional training necessary for acquiring practical knowledge about those particular regions. The aim of the program is to provide students with an understanding of the true essence of our globalizing society in the 21st century, to assist them in acquiring a high level of language ability (including English and Japanese for Japanese language education) within each region useful for their international careers, and to foster talented individuals who are genuinely capable of harmonious coexistence with people from other cultures.
